General Terms – All Users

Welcome to <https://www.edgee.cloud>. Edgee provides an edge computing platform with features ("Services"). In order to provide our Site and Services (collectively, "Platform"), we collect personal data from our customers ("Customers").

We might collect and/or host the personal data of our Customer's end users ("End Users") when our Customers' websites are hosted by Edgee or our Customers use our Services.

1. Introduction

Edgee.cloud is a private company which may include its affiliates, subsidiaries, directors, officers, employees, agents, partners, contractors, and/or licensors (together, referred to throughout this Privacy Policy as "Edgee", "us", or "we").

Edgee offers different services, products, software, and offerings (the "Services"), including but not limited to, all information, tools and services (including any beta services) available from us to you (the 'User'), that are run under the brand "Edgee" and on related Edgee websites, including but not limited to: <https://www.edgee.cloud>, <https://docs.edgee.cloud>, and <https://status.edgee.cloud> (the 'Sites'), conditioned upon your acceptance of all terms, conditions, policies and notices stated in the Terms of Services and this Privacy Policy.

(Note: this Privacy Policy explicitly excludes customer sites. These sites could be subdomains under edgee.app).

This Privacy Policy explains how Edgee collects, uses, stores, and shares your personal information when you use our Services and/or visit our Sites in accordance with various privacy laws. By using the Sites and Services, Users and visitors acknowledge the processing of their personal data in accordance with this Privacy Policy which may be modified or updated from time to time. Personal data is information that alone or in combination with other information in our possession, or likely to come into our possession, can be used to identify a living individual. We strive to make this Privacy Policy as consumer-friendly as possible, but if you have a question about something, please contact us.

2. To Whom Does This Policy Apply

Note at the outset that this Privacy Policy does not cover our Customers' websites. Each Customer is responsible for posting its own terms, conditions, and privacy policies, and ensuring compliance with all applicable laws and regulations.

This Privacy Policy applies to:

- Customers: as noted above, this includes any individual who registers individually or on behalf of an entity or organization in order to use the Services.
- Site Visitors: visitors to our Site, including those who may also opt in to receive commercial communications from Edgee. This does not include any visitors to our Customers' individual websites.

3. Information we collect

We collect information that you give us or that we get from your use of our Sites and Services, including without limitation, the following categories: names, addresses, country, email addresses, telephone numbers, organizations, job title, financial data relating to orders, IP Addresses, log files, CV and other information when applying to work with us.

We may also collect information about you, including your user interactions with our Sites and Services, from cookies and tracking devices if you have consented to their use.

Edgee provides components for your services. Also, Edgee will occasionally provide application-specific modules or libraries, which you may opt into, for integration into your software project and service in order to improve it. Such applications, libraries, or modules may report usage information to us, which we may collect. Information collected may contain the type of actions performed, log data of API activity, as well as configuration information. This information may be linked to you, and we may use this information to better provide technical support to you and to improve our Services. We do not explicitly collect any special categories of personal data or sensitive personal information through our Sites and Services. However, we may collect special categories of personal data or sensitive personal information if you have signed up to attend a conference hosted by Edgee and have explicitly consented to the processing of your data regarding dietary restrictions or disability accommodations.

3.1. Information We Collect Indirectly

Device and Usage Information

When you use or interact with the Site, even if you do not have an account, we, or authorized third parties engaged by us, may automatically collect information about your use of the Site via your device, some of which is considered personal information.

"Device and Usage Information" that we collect consists of:

- Information About your Device: information about the devices and software you use to access the Site – primarily the internet browser or mobile device that you use, the website or source that linked or referred you to the Site, your IP address or device ID (or other persistent identifier that uniquely identifies your computer or mobile device on the Internet), the operating system of your computer or mobile device, device screen size, and other similar technical information.
- Usage Information: information about your interactions with the Platform, including access dates and times, hardware and software information, device event information, log data, crash data, cookie data. This information allows us to understand the screens that you view, how you've used the Platform (which may include administrative and support communications with us), and other actions on the Platforms. We, or authorized third parties, automatically collect log data when you access and use the Platform, even if you have not created an account or logged in. We use this information to administer and improve the Services, analyze trends, track users' use of the Platform, and gather broad demographic information for aggregate use.

Note that Device and Usage Information is collected from our community boards, as well as from our Customers' End Users who visit our Customers' websites hosted by Edgee or that use our Services. Based on Device and Usage Information, we are also able to determine general location information ("Location Information"). Location Information: we use a third-party database to map the general location to which each IP address corresponds ("Location Information").

The Location Information that is mapped from an IP address is limited to country and city – we do not identify precise location. We use Location Information in order to more effectively provide our Services to our Customers. In addition, as part of our Services, we also share Location Information (based on End Users' IP addresses) to our Customers, so that they may also more effectively provide their products and services to their End Users.

3.2. Information We Process on Behalf of Our Customers

As noted above, we deploy and host websites. These Customers may collect personal information from their End Users in connection with the products or services that they offer to End Users.

Because we host our Customers' websites and provide other analytics tools, we process End Users' information when they use our Customers' websites, web applications, and APIs. This information may also include, but is not limited to, IP addresses, system configuration information, and other information about traffic to and from Customers' websites (collectively, the "Log Data"), as well as Location Information derived from IP addresses. We do not, however, collect or process End Users' IP addresses through the use of our analytics Services.

All of this information is stored on our Platform as part of our Services, but Customers are responsible for the content transmitted across our network (e.g., images, written content, graphics, etc.), as well as any personal information they collect. Customers are also solely responsible for notifying their End Users of their personal information collection, use, and disclosure.

With respect to Log Data, we collect and use Log Data to operate, maintain, and improve our Services in performance of our obligations under our Customer agreements. For example, Log Data can help us to detect new threats, identify malicious third parties, and provide more robust security protection for our Customers. It also helps us with improving our Platform, as explained below.

Analytics

With the Device and Usage Information collected by our third-party analytics services, such as Google Analytics, as well as Log Data, we generate and process aggregated information, such as statistical or demographic data.

Aggregated Information may be derived from personal data, but may not be considered personal data if it does not directly or indirectly reveal your identity. For example, we may track the total number of visitors to our Platform, or review Log Data, or track the number of visitors to each page of our Site. We aggregate this data to calculate the percentage of users accessing a specific feature of the Platform and analyze this data for trends and statistics. However, if we or our third-party analytics service providers combine or connect Aggregated Information with your personal data so that it can directly or indirectly identify you, we treat the combined data as personal data, which will be processed in accordance with this Privacy Policy. Please see our Cookie Policy Part for more information.

3.3. Payment Processing

We do not directly collect your payment information and we do not store your payment information. We use third-party, PCI-compliant, payment processors, which collect payment information on our behalf in order to complete transactions. While our administrators are able to view and track actual transactions via customer portals, we do not have access to, or process, your credit card information.

3.4. Interactive and Public Spaces

The Platform may offer publicly accessible blogs, community forums, comments sections, discussion forums, or other interactive features ("Interactive and Public Spaces"). If you choose to participate in any of these Interactive and Public Spaces, please be aware that any information that you post may be read, collected, and used by others who access it. If you wish to remove your personal information from any of our Interactive and Public Spaces, please contact us.

4. Our use of cookies and urchin tracking modules (UTMs)

Cookies are small pieces of data stored on your device (computer or mobile device). Cookies can be used to provide you with a tailored user experience and to make it easier for you to use a site upon a future visit.

When used, cookies are downloaded and stored on your device. Such information, on its own, will not identify you personally. It is statistical data. You have the option to accept all cookies, accept some cookies while rejecting others, or reject them all. Rejecting functional cookies may prevent you from using certain portions or functionalities of our sites and Services.

We may use such cookies to deliver and improve our Services. Some third-party services that we use to improve the Services (including usage, measuring performance, and advertising), such as Google Analytics, may also place cookies on your device. Examples of Cookies we use:

- Strictly necessary cookies. These cookies are necessary for the website to function and cannot be switched off in our systems.
- Performance & analytic cookies. These cookies allow us to count visits and traffic sources so we can measure and improve the performance of our Sites.
- Functional cookies. These cookies enable the website to provide enhanced functionality and personalization.
- Advertising cookies. These cookies deliver and measure the effectiveness of our marketing campaigns and may be set through our site by our advertising partners.

- Social media cookies. These cookies are set by a range of social media services that we have added to the site to enable you to share our content with your friends and networks.

The validity period of cookies for our sites and Services is 6 months. We will request a new prior consent after this period.

Urchin Tracking Module \("UTM"\) tags are distinct from cookies as defined above. UTM works as a custom Uniform Resource Locator ("URL") parameter for marketing campaigns and reports can be viewed in platforms like Google Analytics. UTM tags are appended as part of the visible URL in marketing programs to understand the specific instance of a link. UTM tag reports are observed in Google Analytics or Marketo to better understand how our visitors are getting to our websites, and as such, who our visitors are. Such data is collected at an aggregate level, and we will not identify you personally. Customizing the URL with UTM tags allows us to better understand marketing activity, which then allows us to better serve our customers and audience.

As part of this process, non-identifying and non-profiling information (source, medium, campaign, and Click ID), will be stored in your browser in local storage. No Personally Identifiable Information ("PII") or personal data will be stored. This information would only be used by Edgee if you sign up for and consent to our service. At that point in time, campaign attribution information would be made available to Edgee to gauge the effectiveness of the campaign. You may clear your browser cache prior to signing up for our service to opt out.

For any questions on cookies or UTM opt-outs, or about our policy listed here, please contact us at privacyfirst@edgee.cloud
